

THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN INDIGENOUS AND NON-INDIGENOUS PEOPLE

Facilitated by Ron Crowe, Executive-in-Residence, JSGS, and Cassandra Wajuntah, Associate Director, Indigenous Peoples' Health Research Centre (IPHRC)

This one-day public workshop will provide an overview of the historical events and policies that have shaped the current relationship between Indigenous people and non-Indigenous people in Canada. The workshop will highlight how this historical context plays a role in the Calls to Action highlighted by the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC). The workshop will also examine current Indigenous policy and review engagement strategies and relationship-building tools that public servants can use with Indigenous communities.

TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 2017

9:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

Room 210, 2 Research Drive
University of Regina,
Regina, SK

By the end of this workshop, participants will:

- 1) Understand how historical events, policies and current legislation have shaped the current social, health, and education inequalities for many Indigenous people;
- 2) Be familiar with relationship-building tools and engagement strategies; and,
- 3) Have the background knowledge necessary to initiate the implementation of selected TRC Calls to Action.
