

Punching below its Weight: Canadian Public Administration Scholarship on the World Stage

Advancing the Public Administration Discipline

The influence of Canadian public administration research compared to other national strands is examined. First, we look at the number of studies using Canadian data in systematic literature reviews in public administration journals. Second, we compare the reliance on the top 70 articles in Public Administration (St.Clair et al., 2017) from journals in Australia and Canada. Third, using Google Scholar Metrics, we compare the relative impact factors between the Canadian and Australian journals in many social sciences. Our results show that Canadian studies found in international journals have far less influence than studies from the US, the UK, Australia and the Netherlands.
