

JOHNSON SHOYAMA GRADUATE SCHOOL OF PUBLIC POLICY
UNIVERSITY OF SASKATCHEWAN CAMPUS

NOW HIRING: TENURE-TRACK POSITION

The Johnson Shoyama Graduate School of Public Policy (JSGS) is recruiting for a tenure-track/tenured position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor, starting July 1, 2021. This position will be based at our University of Saskatchewan (USask) campus. If you are interested in becoming part of transformative change at JSGS as we enter into an exciting stage of faculty renewal at our USask campus, read on.

CANDIDATE QUALITIES

We are looking for a new scholarly colleague with a doctoral degree and a research track record in health or social policy; a PhD in a range of disciplinary backgrounds may be considered.

The ability to add to JSGS's methodological diversity, excellence in online teaching, and public engagement will be strong assets. For applicants at the Associate Professor level, demonstrated academic leadership experience (such as serving as a graduate chair or Principal Investigator on a grant) is a strong asset. Experience in the public sector would be an added bonus.

Candidates who will attract our attention are high-impact scholars whose ambitions resonate with the JSGS brand of high-quality graduate education and outstanding interdisciplinary research. We are seeking candidates who will contribute vitality to our school's graduate programming, both in person and online, our ambitious research agenda, and a dynamic academic culture.

This is an open invitation for you to challenge us with your creative and innovative research and approaches to teaching and demonstrate how your work will have a positive impact on society.

DETAILS AND HOW TO APPLY

The successful candidate will be offered a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor. A more senior candidate may be appointed with tenure.

To apply, please send a letter of motivation (including your vision on research and education if you were to join JSGS) and a detailed CV as a single PDF file to jsgs-hr@usask.ca. The consideration of applications will begin on January 4, 2021, and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Saskatchewan (USask) is strongly committed to a diverse and inclusive workplace that empowers all employees to reach their full potential. All members of the university community share a responsibility for developing and maintaining an environment in which differences are valued and inclusiveness is practiced. The university welcomes applications from those who will contribute to the diversity of our community. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority.

ABOUT JSGS

Named after Albert W. Johnson and Thomas K. Shoyama, two of Saskatchewan's best-known public servants who went on to illustrious careers with the federal government, JSGS is the first provincial school of its kind and is the product of an innovative and successful partnership between the University of Regina and the University of Saskatchewan.

In its second decade of operations, JSGS strives to be a world-class policy school that educates, informs, and engages with public policy and administration. Our unique two-campus model brings together faculty and staff from two universities and several disciplines, as well as a host of Executives-in-Residence with many years of practical experience in government.
