

THE HOUSTON LECTURE

PRESENTS

DR.
ANDREW BOOZARY

Primary Care Physician and the Executive Director of Population Health and Social Medicine at the University Health Network (UHN)

Thanks to the generous donation of the late Dr. Stuart and Mary Houston and the Houston Family Trust, this annual lecture brings together thought leaders, academics, students and community members to hear from leading experts on current issues related to inequality, health and social policy in Canada.

SOCIAL JUSTICE FOR NEW IMMIGRANTS AND REFUGEES IN CANADA

Recently, Canada has seen a significant increase in the number of immigrants, refugees and asylum seekers. But, is Canada well-prepared to truly welcome them? The evidence suggests this marginalized and vulnerable population group suffers social injustices and inequalities in Canada; they have one of the poorest health outcomes in the country. To address this wicked and complex social and policy problem, policy makers need to address the social determinants of health (the conditions in which people live, work, grow, and age) of this population group such as income, employment, education, discrimination, culture, and language. We need to find ways to build multi-sectoral collaborations among different sectors of society around the common purpose of creating more just, culturally-safe, and sustainable communities.

REGISTER ONLINE:

WWW.SCHOOLOFPUBLICPOLICY.SK.CA

MAY 9

12:00 - 1:30 PM (CST)

The 2023 Houston
Lecture will be delivered via Zoom.

Those interested in attending this free, online lecture must register in advance.

JOHNSON
SHOYAMA